ARE GIVEN CLEAN BILL IN REPORT

Field Examiners Find That County Treasurer Owes John C. Blacklidge $53.77.

COMMENDS HIS RECORDS

Say That George H. Caldwell is Indebted to County in Sum of Fifty-nine Cents.

According to reports which have been filed before the county board of commissioners by Field Examiners Clem T. Kain and Walter J. Twinn, John C. Blacklidge and George H. Caldwell, former county treasurers, are both given a clean bill of health. The reports cover the last three years of the Blacklidge term and only the first term of Mr. Caldwell. They show that when Mr. Blacklidge went out of office, the county was indebted to him in the sum of $53.77, he owing $5.50 of that amount to George Caldwell, who succeeded him. The report on the first term of Former Treasurer Caldwell says that he owed the county fifty-nine cents at the end of the first year.

The report on the last three years of the term of office served by Mr. Blacklidge is a very exhaustive one. The examiners say that they learned that he was elected to office in 1902 and again in 1904 on the Republican ticket. The report covers the period from January first, 1904 to December 31, 1906, as the examiners were ordered not to delve back into the records of former county officials more than six years.

When Mr. Blacklidge went out of office, the county owed him just $53.77 and they still owe it. In order to get that sum which is due him, he must file a claim before the board of commissioners just as any other claimant would do. He owes $5.50 of that amount to George H. Caldwell, but that is no business of the county. The reason for the county being indebted to the former treasurer is assigned to the fact that a ditch tax was charged back to him in 1904 just that amount in excess of the amount collected. The examiners criticize his method of bookkeeping in a few places, saying that it is confusing, but they have failed to find any error in his accounts and records.

The examiners say in commending the report of Mr. Blacklidge: "We have made a careful examination of all records in the treasurer's office and all records in the auditor's office pertaining to the treasurer's office have been verified, all footings and charges proven, the correctness of all settlement sheets and compared all credits, taken by the treasurer, with warrants issued by the auditor and have found both charges and credits correct with one exception and that is in the collection of the ditch assessment which has been noted above."

George H. Caldwell was elected county treasurer on the Republican ticket for his first term in 1906. The examiners in their report only cover the first term of the former treasurer's two terms, January first, 1907, to December 31, 1908. They report that the former treasurer owed the

CHARIVARI PARTY.

About fifty friends gathered at the home of Omer Gartin, north of this city last night with sleigh-bells, guns and torpedoes. Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gartin, who were spending the night there, had suspected their coming, but remained at home, as last Saturday night they had fooled the crowd. Mr. and Mrs. Gartin were presented by a member of the crowd with a beautiful chair, after which refreshments of watermelon, candy, and cigars were served.

county fifty-nine cents at the end of his first term, due to the fact that an error was made in listing two warrants, one for nine cents and the other for fifty cents. The examiners are disposed to criticize Mr. Caldwell's manner of handling warrants. They say that the method is erroneous and confusing and suggest a better plan, but they failed to find and discrepancy on that account.

In a final statement, the examiners say of Mr. Caldwell's first term in the following complimentary words: "We find that a very accurate account has been kept of all money coming into the hands of the county treasurer from all sources and that he has been properly charged with same, except that which is noted in the above mistake in listing warrants."

FEAR INTERNAL INJURY IS RESULT

Newton Brown is Seriously Hurt While Unloading a Corn Shredder at Clarksburg.

SEVERAL RIBS ARE BROKEN

Newton Brown, employed at the Doles Hardware store at Clarksburg, met with a serious and per chance dangerous accident on Monday afternoon, says the Greensburg News. He was assisting in unloading a corn shredder near the store when in some manner it slipped and he was crushed under it. Several of his ribs were broken.

He was removed in an automobile to his home and when those in charge attempted to take him from the machine, the excruciating pain caused him to faint. Mr. Brown makes his home with his mother. A late report from that place this afternoon is to the effect that it is feared that he has sustained severe internal injuries.

POLICE HAVE ALL CROOKS' RECORDS

Carefully Scan Faces of All Men Arrested to Ascertain if They Are Wanted.

ALWAYS LOOKING FOR THEM

The police department has many pictures and records of bad men who are wanted all over the country for crimes of all kinds, and are constantly on the lookout for them. With men coming here from all over the country to work, police departments in all the large cities send circulars here when they are after a man in the belief that he might show up here as a number have done in the past, and been arrested.

When strangers are arrested they are given a close questioning and the officers compare their features with those on circulars and records of criminals wanted and of escaped convicts. Their last place of residence is ascertained, their birthplace, previous employments, etc., and nothing is left undone to ascertain if they are wanted anywhere for any crime before they are released. In this way the police have already made several good catches and turned the men over to the places where they were wanted.

WHOLE FAMILIES WERE DIVIDED

Friends Were Forced to Part—Husbands and Wives Were Torn Asunder.

PANDEMONIUM, RULING SPIRIT

One Woman Would Not Leave Her "Pal" on Platform and Tramp-led Down the Crowd.

Families were divided, children were torn from their mother's arms, husbands and wives were cast asunder, friends were parted, relatives were forced to wave a farewell, and pandemonium reigned supreme at exactly 9:04 o'clock this morning. There was a weeping and gnashing of teeth, and a desire to board the traction car that could not be fulfilled, and a general disorder of things which caused the most optimistic to say something under their breath. It was a touching sight, in fact so touching that some were standing on other people's toes and others were sticking their faces in their neighbors' hair. Enemies were forced to touch ribs and the dearest friends were apart.

The whole uproar was occasioned first by the fact that the State fair is now the principal attraction at Indianapolis, and secondly because two hundred people tried to board the I. & C. Dispatch this morning when there was only room for one-half that number. The rush and crush threatened to precipitate a riot for a time and a police call was being considered, when the conductor blew his little whistle and stepped on the one inch of space which had been left for him on the lower step of the car.

When the uproar had subsided, there were still several people who had survived the storm, waiting on the platform, and relief was brought to their troubled brains when it was announced that a second car, a special—would be run to Indianapolis in twenty minutes.

Husbands were left all alone, desolate and weary on the station platform, while their wives sped away to the State fair. Fathers and mothers were standing and waving a parting farewell as if their beloved ones were going on a long, long voyage, when the car pulled out with nearly two hundred passengers aboard. They shouted words of warning to the friends and relatives, telling them where they would meet at the other end of the line.

Some there were who would not be parted. One woman was on the car and comfortably seated, when she suddenly discovered that her companion in strife had not been so successful at the rough and tumble game as she. She was in a terrible state when she made the startling discovery that her friend had not won in the survival of the fittest. She did not go on to Indianapolis and leave her "pal" behind to mourn her going. She adopted football tactics of present day methods and trampled that car load of people "nigh unto death." She left a path through the car that made it look like it had just issued from a hurricane. She was not to be stopped, and just as the car pulled out she jumped from the lower step into the arms of her waiting companion, not to be separated on any State fair trips.

Up until noon today over five hundred tickets had been sold to Indianapolis over the traction line. Extra cars were furnished with nearly every regular car so that the crowd was handled with the greatest care.

One of the most valuable discoveries of placer gold in Alaska was made by men who ran a small steamboat up a shallow river to avoid government inspectors.

FINDS GLOVER IS NOT GUILTY

Defendant in Famous Potato Patch Case is Acquitted After Great Legal Difficulty.

WAS POSTPONED FOUR TIMES

Crop of Tubers Slipped Back Into Obscurity to Await Coming of Another "Gardener."

A small potato patch, consisting of a very few rows of the Irish breed, has caused the legal machinery of the city of Rushville more creaks and groans than "Bill" Bryan ever caused the Democratic party. The row which is a direct result of the potato patch being in existence, finally came to trial in the mayor's court last night after having been postponed four different times, when Richard Glover, better known as "Dick," stood trial on a charge of assault and battery, brought by Charles Gardner, who alleged that Glover hit him over the arm with a broom stick after the argument in, over and about above-mentioned tuber patch.

There were three witnesses, aside from the prosecuting witness and the defendant, who were subpoenaed to appear last night, and each and every one of them told a different story of the fray which occurred three weeks ago last Monday. The prosecution was pushed by Albert Stevens of the law firm of Stevens & Carson, in the absence of the deputy prosecutor, Wallace Morgan, and the accused man was ably defended by Frank J. Hall, lieutenant Governor of this fair State. A by the word, for the second highest executive in the State by his eloquent appeal to the court for the acquittal of his client won the mind of Mayor Black and caused him to return a verdict for Glover even though the State's attorney believed "that the defendant should be justly punished with a fine of one dollar and costs."

The trial consumed most of last evening in the mayor's court. The story as could best be gleaned from the different and varied phases of it that were told in court, all hinged on the potato patch, which has been talked about so much already that the tubers are weeping their eyes out. It was said on the stand that the ground belonged to Glover and that he contracted with Gardner to put in the patch of potatoes, the owner to pay for half of the plowing and to receive half of the crop. It seems that trouble started immediately after the contract, when Gardner did not have the ground plowed with the kind of a plow that Glover had ordered.

That did not cause a row, however, but when the digging time came around, then came also the time for the fray. It seems that Glover went to the patch three weeks ago last Monday evening and found that Gardner was taking the potatoes out of the mounds. Glover claims that he remonstrated with his tenant, saying that the potatoes were too young to dig and that he did not have any right to them, anyway, because he had not lived up to his contract by failing to tend the patch. Then came the battle, how, when, or in what manner it happened could not be extracted, only that Glover said that Gardner drew a big knife on him, and Gardner said that he did not; Gardner said that Glover hit him over the arm with a broom stick, and Glover said that he did not remember; but on one point they did agree and that was that they clashed.

Nellie Glover, niece of the defendant, was the peace-maker, according to her testimony. She said on the stand last night that she saw the two men clinch, went out and parted them and sent each one on his way, but she failed to throw any light on the fight proper. It seems that she got in for the grand finale.

Alice Glover, a relative of the defendant said that she was home on the day of the encounter and lived in the house adjoining the potato patch, but she did not see any of the fight. Carl O'Neil was placed on the stand to relate a conversation between himself and Gardner in which it was said that Gardner has said things about the fight, but O'Neil, like all of the other witnesses, failed to lead the court and the counsel into the light.

Now the potato patch has shifted back into sullen obscurity to await the coming of another "Gardner."

LOCAL DENTIST TO LEAVE THE CITY

Dr. E. F. VanOsdol Sells His Office Furniture to Dr. C. W. Whitley of Harrisburg, Ill.

WILL CAUSE TWO VACANCIES

C. W. Whitley of Harrisburg, Ill., has purchased the dental office of Dr. E. F. VanOsdol in the Poundstone building and will be located there in the future. He will take possession of the place next Tuesday, at which time Dr. VanOsdol will retire. Dr. Whitley is a young man and only recently graduated from the Chicago dental college. He has purchased the office furniture of Dr. VanOsdol, but will install new dental apparatus and chair. Dr. Whitley is a cousin of Charles Broadhead of this city.

Dr. VanOsdol said today that he had no plans for the future other than that he and his family will move from this city in a short time. The departure of Dr. VanOsdol will leave a vacancy in two offices which he held. He was president of the Rushville Gun and Country club and his leaving will necessitate the election of a new head. Dr. VanOsdol was also secretary-treasurer of the Eastern Indiana Dental Association.

CROSBY CASE IS CONTINUED

Prosecuting Witness is Unable to be Here and Defendant's Counsel is Busy in Court.

TO COME UP NEXT WEDNESDAY

The case of the State against Ed Crosby, the former trustee of Rushville township, who is charged by the State board of accountants with forgery on two different counts, which was set for a preliminary hearing in mayor's court today, was continued until one week from today. The deputy prosecutor, Wallace Morgan, gave two reasons for the postponement of the hearing. Reuben Conner, an attorney of Connersville, counsel for the defendant, is busy with a case in the circuit court here and was unable to appear today. John C. Cheney, the prosecutor, telephoned from Shelbyville this morning that the prosecuting witness was unable to appear today.

BARELY ESCAPES FEARFUL DEATH

Richard C. Williams, Manager of St. Paul Stone Quarries, is Almost Ground to Pieces.

JERKED INTO STONE CRUSHER

And Bones of His Arms and Shoulders are Mashed and Broken—Stopped Machinery in Time.

Richard C. Williams of Cincinnati, manager of the St. Paul stone quarries, had a very narrow escape from death yesterday, when he accidentally became involved in the machinery of the huge stone crusher owned by the company and as a result he is lying now in a critical condition with the bones of his shoulders and arms mashed and broken, a deep gash over his eye and with his body bruised and cut all over.

The accident occurred when Williams went down to the bottom of the mammoth crusher to make an adjustment. While engaged in his labor he drew too near to the machinery. His coat sleeve was caught in the bucket belt and before he could extricate himself he was jerked upward into the pulley above. The engineer of the machine shut off the power as quickly as possible and the injured manager was picked up and carried to a house nearby. Had the machine continued moving a few seconds longer Williams' life would have been completely crushed out of his body.

Dr. Charles Williams of St. Paul was called to attend the injuries and he discovered that the injured man had sustained serious wounds. The chest was badly crushed and it is feared that he has received internal injuries. The shoulders and arms are badly mashed and numerous bones were fractured. The gash over his eye is two inches long and required several stitches to close it. Although the injuries are very dangerous the physician believes that there is hope for the man's recovery.

Williams came from his home in Cincinnati several weeks ago to take charge of the St. Paul quarries.

SEARCH FOR THUGS WITHOUT SUCCESS

Police Warned to Arrest Three Men Wanted in Indianapolis For Robbery Last Night.

THOUGHT TO BE ON FREIGHT

A telephone call from Indianapolis about nine o'clock last night put the police in an uproar for a time, but it soon subsided, when it was learned, after the police arrived at the C. H. & D. station, where they were called, that they were only wanted to arrest three thugs on the freight which is due through here at 10:35 o'clock. The communication by phone bore the message that the three men were wanted in Indianapolis for robbery and that they had left the city on that train. City Marshal Jesse Harlow and Policeman John Walters waited until the train arrived and made a careful search, but failed to locate the men who are wanted.

SHOCKING CASE OF BRUTALITY

So-Called "Scab's" Ear Cut Off at Buffalo.

EAR THEN SENT TO EMPLOYER

When Horrid Object Turned Up in the Mails the Government Took a Hand and After a Long Chase Inspector Oldfield Has Made Four Arrests Which May Result in Airing of Long List of Brutalities Along the Lakes.

New York, Sept. 14.—Three sailors and a laborer from Buffalo were arrested here by United States Post-office Inspector Oldfield and several central office detectives after Oldfield and Buffalo detectives had been working three months on a brutal case of supposed strikers in the great lakes steamship employment committing assault and robbery upon one Edward Frazier, whom they termed a "scab." Frazier's ear was cut off when he had been put under the influence of knock-out drops, and then the thing was sent through the mails to President Harry Caulby of the Pittsburgh Steamship Company at Cleveland.

The men arrested were all staying at a sailors' boarding house at 507 West street. They are John Meyers, Robert Cochran, Henry Moran, all sailors, and Michael Kane, who says he is a laborer. They are charged with acting in concert in the commission of an assault, mutilation and robbery of Edward Frazier, a machinist. Inspector Oldfield tells the story. For years, he says, there has been trouble along the lake shores between ship owners and those employed to operate them. Assaults, property damages and sometimes murders have been the sequels to some of the bitterest disputes. Owners have been trying to establish the "open" boat scheme of employment.

Edward Frazier was out of a job in Sault Ste. Marie early this summer and he shipped as a deck hand on an "open" boat to his native city, Buffalo. He got there Sunday, June 26, and the following morning he set out for the Lake Carriers' association, just after he had been paid off. On the way he met a man who was supposed to be a walking delegate of the Marine Firemen's union. They scraped a casual acquaintance and drank together at a saloon. Then Frazier went his way. Returning he stopped in the saloon to see his friend. The man was not there, but Frazier found himself the center of a genial group of sailors. They all drank together, and then the others suggested that all adjourn to Henry Engesser's place. There was more drinking here, and then Frazier suddenly saw the floor jump up at him. He remembered nothing further.

The authorities, however, say that they will be able to produce witnesses who saw five men carrying the unconscious form of Frazier through the rear door of the saloon into a yard and then proceed to cut off his left ear and slash him in several parts of the body with a long knife.

The $35 pay which he had just received was taken from him, and as a final touch the men pasted a large sticker over his right eye which bore the union label. Several hours later Frazier awoke to find himself alone in the rear part.

Three days after this happened in Buffalo the post-office department at Washington was notified by President Caulby of the Pittsburgh Steamship line that he had received on the previous day a bottle, securely sealed, which contained a bloody human ear. Oldfield was immediately assigned to the case by the authorities at Washington. Oldfield thinks these men who are arrested are not typical union men of the marine firemen in Buffalo, but that they make a living by laying low and watching for a chance to "make friends" with moneyed sailors. He said the union deplores the crime and intends to assist in the prosecution of these men if they turn out to be bona fide members.

Ballinger Committee Adjourns. Chicago, Sept. 14.—Secretary Ballinger will not learn his fate at the hands of the investigation committee soon. A statement has been issued to the effect that there being no quorum, the committee had adjourned until Dec. 3 to meet in Washington. The minority resolution adopted at Minneapolis was declared "irrational."

PRISON BOARD DELIBERATING

No Hurry About Naming New Prison Warden.

TAKING THEIR TIME TO IT

Successor to the Late Warden Reid of the Indiana State Prison at Michigan City, May Not Be Named Until January, the Prison Board of Control Deciding to Act Deliberately in This Important Matter.

Indianapolis, Sept. 14.—According to a report current, it is not probable that the board of control of the state prison at Michigan City will select a successor to the late warden, James D. Reid, before December or January. The board adjourned its recent September meeting at the prison without selecting a date for a special meeting, which makes the next session come at the regular time, the first of October. The September meeting was held on the day following the sudden death of the warden and no candidates for the appointment were considered by the board and no applications were received. No formal consideration of applications can be had before the October meeting, unless a special meeting is called for that purpose, which is said to be very improbable.

It is further said that it is not likely that any applications will be considered in the October meeting. The current fiscal year closes Sept. 30, and the board will have for consideration the usual amount of financial work for the October session, which probably will take all and more of the time usually allotted to the monthly meetings. Deputy Warden Garner is now in charge of the institution and is going ahead with the building under way. His work is satisfactory to the board in his present capacity, and there is said to exist no reason for hasty action on the part of the board.

FOUND HIM DYING

Officers Arrived Just Too Late to Get Their Man Alive.

Scottsburg, Ind., Sept. 14.—Andrew J. Kimberlin, aged fifty, committed suicide by swallowing carbolic acid. Kimberlin left home last week. His family became worried and was making a search for him when he returned. While he was gone two of his neighbors learned that a note for $141 had been placed at the Scott County bank by Kimberlin as collateral on a loan slightly less than the face of the note. They went to the bank and pronounced the note a forgery. Officers were notified and affidavits obtained.

When Officers Wilson and Walker arrived at Kimberlin's home they found him in a dying condition, he having taken carbolic acid shortly before their arrival.

SEVERAL NAMES MENTIONED

In Casting About For a Successor to Chairman Hitchcock, Who Is No Longer in the Game, Washington and Beverly Are Canvassing the Names of Senator Crane, Former Senator Hemenway and Frederick W. Upham.

Washington, Sept. 14.—One of the first fruits of the Maine election will probably be a movement for the better organization and discipline of the Republican party. The matter has been discussed at Beverly and in Washington, and there is a feeling among the leaders that the Republican ship needs a pilot. Postmaster General Hitchcock is no longer actively in command. When he entered the cabinet he relinquished the chairmanship of the national committee and named an acting chairman whose name is probably not now recalled by one Republican in ten thousand. By a peculiar coincidence he is a Maine Republican, ex-Governor Hill. President Taft shows no disposition to assume the aggressive leadership, as did his predecessor. The president admits that he has no ability as a political manager, and he has no taste for such work.

There is a lack of centralized authority in the party management. The congressional campaign is being managed nominally by Representative William B. McKinley of Illinois, chairman of the committee, but the work of the congressional committee is confined almost exclusively to directing the campaigns for the re-election of members of congress. The senatorial fights in each state are taking care of themselves and there is apparently no effort being made to lay a broad foundation for party success in 1912. It is likely that a conference will be held very soon of national leaders to try to find some Republican possessing the resourcefulness and sagacity as a political leader that was displayed by the late Marcus A. Hanna.

The names of Senator Crane of Massachusetts, ex-Senator Hemenway of Indiana and Fred W. Upham of Chicago have been mentioned as available material for the new leadership. What is needed, according to the opinions of those who have been studying election returns, is some man upon whom President Taft can rely to bring about conciliation and harmony in the Republican organization and pave the way for the election of a Republican majority in the house, or if that be impossible, bring about a condition within the party that will augur for Republican success in 1912. President Taft is said to be very much concerned over the situation in the party organization, and is asking for advice and suggestions from leading Republicans.

Democratic politicians attach much importance to the result in Maine. They say its significance is national. At Democratic congressional headquarters the fact was cited that both national party organizations sent their best orators into the state and that national issues in the main were discussed.

THE MAINE ELECTION

Two Congressmen About All the Republicans Saved From the Wreck.

Augusta, Me., Sept. 14.—The latest returns from Monday's election, with twenty-one small towns missing, give Plaisted (Dem.) for governor, a plurality of 8,509. The missing towns will not very materially change the general result.

There is no question of the election of Asher C. Hinds (Rep.) in the First district over W. H. Pennell (Dem.), and that of Congressman Frank H. Guernsey (Rep.) over George M. Hanson (Dem.) in the Fourth district, although the majorities are very small.

The latest returns give Daniel J. McGillicuddy (Dem.) a lead of 2,500 over Congressman John P. Swazey (Rep.) in the Second district and Samuel W. Gould of Skoweghan (Dem.) a lead of 2,200 over Congressman Edwin C. Burleigh (Rep.) in the Third district.

Returns give the Democrats twenty-one out of thirty-one state senators and eighty-six out of 151 representatives. The Democrats lack but fifteen of having a two-third vote in joint convention.

No formal bid has been made for the seat in the United States senate which will be vacated by Eugene Hale on March 4 next, although the names of Charles F. Johnson of Waterville, State Senator Lindsey M. Stahles of Knox, William H. Pennell of Brunswick, who was defeated by Asher C. Hinds in the First district; ex-State Senator Oakley C. Curtis, and William R. Pattengill of Waterville, have been frequently mentioned.

Greater New York's Primaries. New York, Sept. 14.—Republican primaries in Greater New York resulted in the success of the Roosevelt-Griscom faction in practically every district in New York county and in a victory for State Chairman Woodruff in nineteen of the twenty-three districts in Kings, while the old guard leader held Queens and Richmond.

Do You Open Your Mouth

Like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you? Or, do you want to know something of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine?

Most intelligent and sensible people now-a-days insist on knowing what they employ whether as food or as medicine.

Dr. Pierce believes they have a perfect right to INSIST upon such knowledge. So he publishes, broadcast and on each bottle-wrapper, what his medicines are made of and verifies it under oath. This he feels he can well afford to do because the more the ingredients of which his medicines are made are studied and understood the more will their superior curative virtues be appreciated.

For the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses and derangements, giving rise to frequent headache, backache, dragging-down pain or distress and kindred symptoms of weakness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy. It is equally effective in giving strength to nursing mothers and in preparing the system of the expectant mother for baby's coming, thus rendering childbirth safe and comparatively painless. The "Favorite Prescription" is a most potent, strengthening tonic to the general system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. It is also a soothing and invigorating nerve and cures nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the distinctly feminine organs.

A host of medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, recommend each of the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is made for the cure of the diseases for which it is claimed to be a cure. You may read what they say for yourself by sending a postal card request for a free booklet of extracts from the leading authorities, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post.

It's foolish and often dangerous to experiment with new or but slightly tested medicines—sometimes urged upon the afflicted as "just as good" or better than "Favorite Prescription." The dishonest dealer sometimes insists that he knows what the proffered substitute is made of, but you don't and it is decidedly for your interest that you should know what you are taking into your stomach and system expecting it to act as a curative. To him its only a difference of profit. Therefore, insist on having Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Send 31 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only on a free copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages cloth-bound. Address Dr. Pierce as above

"Time's Flight Turned Backward" SAGE AND SULPHUR Made Her look Twenty Years Younger

READ MRS. HERRICK'S SWORN STATEMENT

STATE OF NEW YORK } ss. Rochester, N. Y.

County of Monroe } ss. Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When

I was a school girl I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair, that was so plentiful, rich and glossy, that it was the envy of many of my young schoolmates, and attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. After I was married and as I grew older, my hair commenced to come out just a little at first, but gradually as time passed it came out more and more, and began to turn gray. I was induced by many good reports heard of Sage and Sulphur, to try a bottle. My hair was quite gray and thin on top when I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and you may imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, becoming thicker, darker, smoother and glossier than it had been for a long time. I continued the use of Sage and Sulphur and my hair is now in a splendid condition, as heavy and as dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. From my experience I believe it is one's own fault if they lose their hair, or let it get gray or harsh. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and still use it, and my hair still keeps thick, dark, smooth and glossy.

Sworn to before me this 14th day of July, 1910

The customs men are searching for diamond smugglers and such gems as truth and honesty seem too scarce among our tourists.

If Walter Wellman gets across the ocean in his air ship, he might try his luck on the reported phasm between Mr. Taft and the ex-president.

The Democratic party has a record of about 11 elections won in September since 1789, but somehow when the little show-down in November came, the voters often failed to ratify it.

President Taft's letter, which opens the 1910 campaign, points out the obvious and logical fact that the issue of the year is whether or not we are to continue the Republican policy in power and Republican policies in effect, or give the management of public affairs to Democrats and revert to Democratic theories of government.

Every presidential campaign year there is more or less uneasiness in business circles, caused by the apprehension of a Democratic victory and a repetition of the direful times during Cleveland's administration. It may be asked, How is it that Democrats will vote the Democratic ticket when Democratic victory would be sure to bring disaster? In a general way it may be said that only the thoughtless, the ignorant or the reckless will vote the Democratic ticket. Most of those who are shouting now for the Democratic candidates either forget the disaster which Democratic victory brought in 1892, or they are willing to take chances on whatever change in business a Democratic triumph in 1910 would cause. Millions of voters took the same sort of a chance eighteen years ago, and while most of them had cause to regret their act shortly afterwards, many of them have forgotten that lesson in the intervals, and others are willing to take the risk of causing another convulsion. Among Americans the public memory is apt to be short.

Politics is the dominant factor in the market at the present time. The indications from the grain and cotton fields are that the railways will have an active season in moving the crops, yet prices of railway shares refuse to rise. The Democratic specter is causing the wheels of industry to gradually run slower and slower. It is altogether probable that the Republicans will win in the coming election, and that general trade will spring forward, but business wants certainties and not merely probabilities. This consideration warns the Republican campaign managers to make a supreme effort to retain party ascendancy in Congress. If the Republicans carry the election the country will see, on November 9, a quickening in all the channels of trade which, in a small way at least, will recall the business boom which started on the day following Bryan's defeat in 1896.

Some Famous Echoes.

There is a famous echo on the Ithine between Coblenz and Bingen which repeats a word seventeen times, while in the sepulcher of Metella, the wife of Sulla, in the Roman Campagna, there is an echo which repeats five times in different keys and will also give back with distinctness a hexameter line which requires two and a half seconds to utter. Brewster mentions an echo on the north side of Shipley church, in Sussex, England, which repeats twenty-one syllables.

TRUTH ABOUT WAGES

The Democratic publicity bureau made a bold play for free trade on the argument that wages in England, under free trade, have increased more than 30 per cent in the last thirty years.

Grant that English labor draws even double the wages of thirty years ago, what are present facts as to English labor? Here are some of the facts: One in three of the population of England is in poverty today. One in ten of the population of England is on the verge of actual starvation today. What of wages in England, with all the vaunted increase shown in the last thirty years?

One instance can be cited to indicate the difference between wages in England and wages in America. Where the American carpenter drew $1 in wages in 1907, the English carpenter, at Bristol, drew 41 cents and one mill. At London the carpenter in 1907 drew $0.491, where the American carpenter received a full dollar.

The difference between $1 and $0.491—a little more than 50 per cent—may be regarded, fairly, as the difference between the English workingman's standard of living and the living standard and chance of the American workingman.

If free trade means that the American workingman must be satisfied with 49 cents where he now draws down a dollar, then assuredly the American wage-earner wants no free trade, and the Democrats who renew advocacy of that played-out doctrine might as well shut up shop and cut out their publicity fallacies.

DEBT NOT YET PAID.

Taggart Blocked in Effort to Square Political Pledge With Patronage.

One of Thomas Taggart's political debts remains yet to be paid. It was planned to square it by handing out the clerkship to the state election board. M. M. Bachelder, chosen by the Taggart men to be election commissioner for the Democrats, proposed Thomas Wright for clerk of the board. He failed to put the little deal across for Taggart. Governor Marshall suggested the name of Everett Maginnis, and succeeded in having his man appointed.

Bachelder of the Taggart machine, refused, flatly, to vote for Marshall's man. Governor Marshall, just as flatly, refused to vote for Bachelder's choice. Thus it stood at the first session of the board of election commissioners.

Charles O. Roemer, Republican commissioner, to avoid Democratic strife, and in order to get business started, withdrew his Republican aspirant for the clerkship and voted with Governor Marshall for Maginnis.

This minor detail of politics is given to show how well Taggart and Marshall get along together, and how they agree, even down to the smallest details of plum-pudding distribution among the faithful.

GUARDING BRYAN.

Taggart Trustees Tag at His Heels While He Is in Indiana.

"Guard of Honor for W. J. Bryan" is one of the jobs regularly assigned to the trustees who serve the Democratic party machine at Taggart headquarters.

Col. Bryan drops into Indiana every little while to orate along chautauqua lines. Wherever he goes newspaper men cluster, and local admirers of the Commoner gravitate to his smile. Conditions are such within the Democratic organization that Mr. Bryan is out of tune with the Indiana war cry. So there is always a chance that Mr. Bryan may speak his mind to reporters or to his close friends and sympathizers.

This makes it necessary from the Taggart point of view, to keep close tab on Mr. Bryan, and to guard him carefully against any "slip of the tongue."

So it is that when Col. Bryan enters Indiana, agents from Taggart headquarters seek him out and stick by him like brothers until Col. Bryan has departed once more from the land of Taggartism. Stokes Jackson trails Mr. Bryan closely. Myron King, W. H. O'Brien, Joe Kelley and Bert Hendren tag along. Mr. Bryan is not permitted to meet his friends except under the eyes of the watchful Taggart hirelings. Repeatedly it has been related that Mr. Bryan was met at Rushville, or Columbus, or other Indiana cities, and attended to Indianapolis by one or more of the cat-foot quartet. Mr. Bryan's newspaper statements have all been given out in the presence of Taggart's cat-footers. So far the Commoner has said nothing to agitate the organization henchmen. Col. Bryan, with the future in mind, continues to be "regular." As George Ray says, "the word must go out that Mr. Bryan is 'right.'"

But Bryan men in Indiana are not fooled for a minute.

Not Consulted.

Asked about the hurry-up action of Tom Taggart in placing Charley Great-house on the Democratic state ticket, Governor Marshall said: "I was not consulted."

TEARS CORNER OF HOUSE AWAY

Lightning Strikes Home of Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Near Fairview, Causing Damage.

AGED COUPLE FEELS SHOCK

Bolt Hit Cedar Tree and Followed a Telephone Wire Into the House.

House.

Many people were aroused from slumber by the heavy electrical storm which prevailed Tuesday morning, says the Connersville News. News comes that the home of John G. Henry, living three miles east of Fairview was struck by lightning and considerably damaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry are an aged couple who live alone, and who recently celebrated their golden wedding.

Mrs. Henry, like the good housewife that she is, was aroused by the coming storm, and was up and about the house, which is of two stories, looking after windows, etc., to see that rain could not beat in.

When the bolt struck she was knocked down and stunned for a short time, but soon recovered. Mr. Henry, who was in his bed, was slightly shocked. After the storm, it was found that the lightning had struck a cedar tree in the yard and had been carried to the house by an old, unused telephone wire. One corner of the house was torn away and a large amount of plastering was knocked off. However, the nature of the damage is such that the repairs can be made at a moderate expense.

Mr. Henry was seen on his feet, after the shock. A small fire was kindled by the lightning, but he got it in time to extinguish the flames before it got a start.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry are reported today no worse for their exciting experience other than that they are a little nervous.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

"WOOLLY WEST" A MYTH.

(Philadelphia Telegraph.)
Lady Grizel Hamilton, big game hunter, the female Roosevelt of the African jungle, has returned to England from this country not altogether satisfied with what she found here. After a journey across continent she has concluded that our "woolly west" is a myth, our cowboys an extinct species. She is right. The west is no longer "woolly" and our cow boys consist mostly of circus riders in the employ of moving picture machine men. The west is a settled country with a civilized and educated population. This year's census will show that nearly one-half of our ninety millions live on the other side of the Mississippi river.

PICTURE CENSORSHIP.

(Review of Reviews.)
The big practical step toward eliminating pictures that are dangerous, and encouraging wholesome ones was the formation, by the People's institute of New York, of the national board of censorship. This is composed of public-spirited men and women, persons of high professional standing, representatives of the municipal government, and of social organizations, along with those of the main combination of manufacturers. Many of the so-called "independents," however, voluntarily submit their films also for the national board's "O. K."—which, as a certificate of good standing and respectability, has business value.

Four times a week the censors meet, passing each time upon fifty-odd series of films. Slips of paper are handed around, and criticism and suggestions are written on them by the censors. These command the manufacturers' attention, although in many cases the rearrangement of the plot and picture means an immediate money loss.

GIRL'S ARM IS BROKEN.

(Greensburg News.)
Mildred, the six-year-old daughter of Gordon Kincaid and wife of Clarksburg, while playing in the yard with several other children Monday afternoon, fell and broke one of the small bones in her right arm about half way between the wrist and the elbow. The little girl had started to school in her first year Monday and the misfortune is doubly serious on account that it will retard her in the quest of knowledge. The bone was set by Drs. Beall and Clark of Clarksburg and the child was resting very well this morning.

ADVISES A BATH.

(Indianapolis Star.)
Wilkinson, Ind., has two men who never wash. At least that is what a committee of Wilkinson citizens wrote Dr. Milo Gibbs, health officer of Hancock county. Dr. Gibbs forwarded the letter to Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the State Board of Health, with a request for advice as to how to proceed. Dr. Hurty who has untangled some intricate health problems, was somewhat baffled, but finally recommended that the persons be arrested under quarantine and taken to the county jail, where the sheriff will have the authority to apply soap and water in profusion. The committee charges the men are obnoxious to their fellow townsmen.

It is said citizens of the town have offered to pay for a shave, hair cut and new clothes for one of the men, but that he has absolutely repulsed the advances.

MAY HAVE HORSE SHOW

(Shelbyville Democrat.)
Talk of a horse show for Shelbyville is being heard among lovers of the nobby animal in this city and county, and the date of the show, if one is to be given, will likely be Friday, October 14. The sight of the fine show animals at the county fair naturally led to the agitation of the question and many believe a first class show could be given here and that it would be an advantage to the local merchants as well as the horse-men. Cash premiums that will tempt the owners of the fine animals to bring them forward will be offered for the show. West Broadway is considered as the best place in the city for such an exhibition and the council will be asked for permission to use the street for the show.

AMUSEMENTS

The Vaudet pleased good crowds with an Imp picture last night and will show another one of the same firm tomorrow night. Tonight the Bison feature film, "Married on Horseback," will be the offering. As the title indicates, the picture reproduces a story of western life and is as real as if it actually took place. The scenery is said to be a feature of the subject. A new illustrated song will be sung.

The Star Grand theater offers a Vitagraph subject tonight entitled "Daisies." It is a drama and the title suggests just what this picture is—a "daisy," a college idyl, and one of the most uniquely refined love stories ever written or portrayed.

The Airdome will present one of the Melies films tonight, entitled "Her Winning Ways." It is a comedy which will send you away smiling. Earl Robertson will sing "I Trust My Wife Anywhere, but I Like to Stick Around."

The Palace theater will have a complete change of program tonight.

CHAPTER XII.

HER FAN.

It was dawn when they began to pull up the road to Dreiberg in a carriage. The mountaineer had been riding with the driver. The carriage stopped.

"I shall not intrude, I trust?" said the old man, opening the door and getting in.

"Not now," replied Carmichael. "What is all this about?"

"A trifle." The old man thought for a while. "Suppose you had a nephew who was making a fool of himself over a woman?"

"Nothing unusual in that."

"Suppose, though of good character, she was vastly his inferior in station; that marriage to him was merely a political contract. What would you do?"

"I believe I begin to understand." "I am grateful for that."

"Your nephew is an ungrateful wretch. He knew all along who I was," went on the American. "I dragged him out of the Rhine upon a certain day, and he plays this trick!"

"You? Carmichael, Carmichael, of course; I should have remembered the name as he wrote me at the time. Thank you! And you knew him all the while?"

"No. I recalled his face, but the time and place were in the dark till this early morning. Here we are at the gates. What's this? Guards? I never saw them at these gates before."

After some trouble they passed the guards.

The mountaineer got out quickly, closed the door, spoke a word to the driver and slipped into an alleyway.

Carmichael arrived at the Grand hotel in time to see her serene highness.

HOW TO GET FAT

Use Samose, Says Druggist Thos. W. Lytle and Put on Good Flesh.

The almost universal interest in physical culture is the best evidence that can be offered as to the need of a simple and scientific method of making thin people fat, increasing strength and restoring health.

Athletics, when carried to an extreme, often result in straining the vital organs. How much better it would be for the average person to regain health, strength and flesh by using Samose. This flesh forming food is assimilated as soon as it enters the stomach; it helps the organs to assimilate the food and extract the flesh forming elements; it builds up the muscles and rounds out the limbs into shapely plumpness.

Samose has been so successful in making thin people fat and restoring the weak and run down to strength and health that Thos. W. Lytle, the popular druggist, sells it under his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not benefit.

Sent postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents.

accompanied by two of her ladies and an escort of four soldiers, start out for her morning ride. He waited till they had passed, then slunk into the hotel. The concierge gazed at him in amazement. Carmichael winked. The concierge smiled. He understood. American or Ehrensteiner, the young fellows were all the same.

"Guards at the gates," mused Carmichael as he soaked his head and face in cold water. "By George, it looks as if my friend the vintner was in for some excitement!"

Gretchen! Carmichael stopped, his collar but halfway around his throat. Now, by the Lord, that should not be! He would wring the vintner's neck. He was not in an amiable mood. Some one hammered on the door.

Grumbach entered. "You are angry about something," he said.

"So I am. But you are always welcome."

"You have overslept?"

"No; on the contrary."

"You are disturbed. I'd like to know what's going on in that bullet head of yours."

"I have resigned the consulship."

"And for what reason?"

Carmichael silently drew on his coat. "Acht! So you have one too?"

"One what?"

"One secret."

"Yes. But it's the kind we can't talk about."

"I understand. Have you had breakfast?"

"No."

"Neither have I. Let us go together."

There was a large crowd outside the palace that night, which was clear and starry, because of a great ball. A troop of cavalry patrolled the fence. Carriage after carriage rolled in through the gates, coming directly from the opera.

And close by the sentry box Carmichael saw Gretchen and her vintner. Carmichael could not resist stopping a moment. He raised his hat to Gretchen to the wonder of those nearest.

"Do you know where the American consulate is?" he asked low, so that none but Gretchen and the vintner heard.

"Yes," said the vintner, blushing with shame. "I live above the agency."

"Good! I shall expect to see you in the morning."

But the vintner was determined that he shouldn't. He would be at work in the royal vineyards on the morrow.

"Tomorrow?" repeated Gretchen, to whom this play was a blank. "Why should he wish to see you?"

"Who knows? Let us be going. It is half after 10," he added, as if to put forward some logical excuse for leaving at this moment.

A man followed them all the way to the Krumerweg.

Carmichael threw himself eagerly into the gayety of the dance. He was an accomplished waltzer, after the manner of that day, when one went round and round like some mechanical toy wound up. This would be the last affair of the kind for him, and he wanted a full memory of it. Between times he exchanged a jest or two with the chancellor or talked battles with old Ducwitz. Thrice while on the floor her highness passed him. But there was never a smile, never a glance. He became careless and reckless. He would seek her and talk to her and smile at her even if the duke threw a regiment in between. He saw Grumbach in the gallery.

"Now, what the devil is the Dutchman doing with a pair of opera glasses?"

Later her highness stood before one of the long windows in the conservatory listlessly watching the people in the square. Was that some one coming for her? She turned.

It was Carmichael.

What an opportunity for scandal! She laughed inwardly. The barons and their wives, the ambassadors' wives and their daughters, would miss them both. And the spirit of devilry lay also upon her heart. She smiled at the man and with her fan bade him be seated at her side.

"You have not asked me to dance tonight," she declared.

"I am neither a prince nor an ambassador."

"But you have danced with me."

"Yes; I have been to heaven now and then."

"And do you eject yourself thus easily?"

"By turning myself out my self esteem remains unruined."

"Then you expected to be turned out?"

"As I have said, I am not a prince. I am only a consul, not even a diplomat, simply a business arm of my government. My diplomacy never ascends above the quality of bops and wines imported. I am supposed to take in any wandering sailor, feed him and ship him home. I am also the official guide of all American tourists."

"That is no reason."

"Your father?" He should have said the grand duke.

"Ah, yes; my father, the chancellor, the ambassadors and their wives and daughters! I begin to believe that you have grown afraid of them."

"I confess that I have. I had an adventure last night. Would you like to hear about it?"

"Tell me."

He told her.

"A veiled lady," she mused. "What would you say if I told you that your mystery is no mystery at all? I am the veiled lady. And the person I went to see was my old nurse, my foster mother, with whom I spent the happiest, freest days of my life in the garret at Dresden. Puff! All mysteries may be dispelled if we go to the right person. So you are to be recalled?"

AN UP-TO-DATE DRUGGIST

says it is surprising how many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old, time-tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy, nothing equaling our grandmothers' "sage tea" has ever been discovered. Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer. Nowadays when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. This preparation is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

For sale and recommended by Hargrove & Mullin.

"I have asked for my recall, your highness."

"And so Dreiberg no longer appeals to you? You once told me that you loved it."

"I am cursed with wanderlust, your highness."

"You promised to tell me what she is like."

Suddenly all his fear went away, all his trepidation. The spirit of recklessness which had vided him a little while ago again empowered him. He was afraid of nothing.

"How shall I describe her?" he said. "I have seen only paintings and marbles, and these are inanimate. Have you ever seen ripe wheat in a rain-storm? That is the color of her hair. There are jade and lapis lazuli in her eyes." He leaned toward her. "And I love her better than life, better than hope, and between us there is the distance of a thousand worlds. So I must give up the dream and go away, as an honorable man should."

Neither of them heard the chancellor's approach.

"And because I love her!"

Her fan dropped to the floor.

"Your highness," broke in the cold, even tones of Herbeck, "your father is making inquiries about you."

Carmichael rose suddenly, white as the frill in his shirt.

Hildegard, however, was a princess. She gained her feet leisurely, with a half smile on her lips.

"Count, Herr Carmichael tells me that he is soon to leave Dreiberg."

"Ah!" There was satisfaction in Herbeck's ejaculation. But there was a glint of admiration in his eyes as he recognized the challenge in Carmichael's. "We shall miss Herr Carmichael."

Her highness moved serenely toward the door. Carmichael waited till she was gone from sight; then he stooped and picked up the fan.

The entrance to the vast ducal vineyards was made through a small lodge where the ducal vintner lived and kept his books and moneys till such time as he should be required to place them before the proper official. Upon the morning following the ball at the palace the vintner was reclining against the outside wall of the gates, smoking his china pipe and generally at peace with the world. He discerned a solitary figure approaching from the direction of Dreiberg—a youthful figure, buoyant of step and confident. Herr Hoffman was rather interested. The youth paused at the gate and inspected the old man highly.

"Herr Hoffman, I want work."

"So? What can you do?"

The youth recounted his abilities. "I have a letter to you also."

"Let me see it."

Hoffman saw it, but with starting eyes. There was, then, something new under the sun. A picker of grapes recommended by a princess!

"Du lieber Gott! You are Leopold Dietrich?"

"Yes, herr."

same. Their lips met in a smothered laughter. Then they tried it again.

And this Watteau picture met the gaze of two persons on the terrace below. The empurpling face of one threatened an explosion, but the smiling face of the other restrained this vocal thunder. The old head vintner kicked a stone savagely. Gretchen and her lover turned.

Under Cover of Noise Jail
Breakers Get Busy.

Newark, O., Sept. 14.—Sheriff Slabough nipped in the bud an early morning attempt to liberate the sixty men held in the Newark jail under indictment in connection with the lynching on July 8 of Carl Etherington, the detective. Two men in an auto drove to the jail and for over an hour pretended to make repairs. They kept their engine going and made considerable noise. The sheriff left his bed and made a round of the jail. He found that as the engine was puffing away the prisoners had been sawing at the bars. One had cut through and another nearly so. As the jail lights appeared, the men in the auto finished their pseudo repairs and left hurriedly.

CAUSED A STIR

Body of Man Found in Well Creates Suspicion of Foul Play.

Martinsville, Ind., Sept. 14.—The finding of the body of a man in a well on the farm of Jacob Shoemaker, near Plano, in the west part of the county, has caused a stir. Foul play is suspected, as the well had not been used for some time and was carefully covered when Mrs. Shoemaker went there for a bucket of water. The man's head was in the water with the feet and part of the body showing above the surface. He wore corduroy trousers and a striped shirt.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

Officers of the Mercantile National bank of New York have reported to the district attorney that they think the concern has lost nearly $150,000 through a man whose dealings with it are under severe scrutiny.

The greatest struggle for the Republican nomination for governor in Connecticut in fifteen years is on in the convention at Hartford today. The candidates, Charles A. Goodwin, and Everett J. Lake, are both from Hartford.

Reports from New Jersey's primaries point to the indorsement of ex-Governor Edward C. Stokes for United States senator by the Republicans and to James E. Martine by the Democrats.

There is such general dissatisfaction with the manner in which the census has been conducted at Newburgh, N. Y., that the newspapers of that place announce that they will place canvassers on the work and have the census of the city gone over again.

NEW FORM OF JOY RIDE

Columbus Man Steals Streetcar to Give Girl an Outing.

Columbus, Ind., Sept. 14.—The police are looking for the man who stole a streetcar and took it out for a joy ride. They think they know the man, but have not yet made an arrest. Someone broke into the local barns of the Central Indiana Lighting company late at night and took out the car that runs to Orinoco, a suburb of this city. Residents along the line were awakened by the noise of the car, as it was being driven at a high rate of speed. The car was driven to the end of the Orinoco line and back to the business part of the city, where the trolley wheel jumped from the trolley and the car was abandoned. Officials of the company found that the lock on the car's door had been picked and the car stolen. The man is believed to have been accompanied by a woman.

MAY REVIVE FEUD

Another of the Famous Hatfield Family Meets Sudden Death.

Rhinefield, W. Va., Sept. 14.—William Blankenship, who shot and killed Dr. Wayne Hatfield, kin of "Devil Anse Hatfield" of the notorious family of feudists, was captured hiding in a cave. A posse armed with rifles surrounded the hiding place of the desperado, bent on taking him dead or alive. Blankenship's father appeared at the mouth of the cave and promised to turn his son over to the authorities if no harm was done him. A heavy guard is being kept over the jail where he was taken for fear that friends of Dr. Hatfield may attempt to mete summary justice on the accused man.

Will Be Accompanied by Staff.

Indianapolis, Sept. 14.—Preparations are virtually complete for Governor Marshall and his party to leave Indianapolis next Friday afternoon for Antietam, where the monument recently erected to the Indiana soldiers who died on the battlefield will be dedicated. For the first time since he became governor, Governor Marshall will be accompanied by a staff, which will be composed entirely of state militia officers.

He Worked the Merchants.

Mitchell, Ind., Sept. 14.—A stranger entered the grocery store of J. A. Dalton and asked the clerk for a few blank checks on the bank. He was accommodated and now several checks ranging from $10 to $20, bearing the name of Dalton, have been turned down by the bank as forgeries. A number of merchants were caught. The stranger is missing.

Dalawara "Wets" Win.

Dover, Del., Sept. 14.—The Democratic state convention developed into a "wet" and "dry" fight of the most pronounced kind, in which the "wets" won. The battle was over the nomination of a candidate for congress. Ex-Attorney General Robert C. White, "wet," of Georgetown, defeated William Sansbury, "dry," of Dover, on the second ballot.

Arm Caught in Bolt.

Shelbyville, Ind., Sept. 14.—Richard Williams, a carpenter, of the St. Paul store, was working near a belt when he was caught. His belt was pulled into a wheel and the machinery could not be stopped. The man's arm and right side of his head were badly injured and he will probably die.

Shot and Escaped.

Jeffersonville, Ind., Sept. 14.—Geo. Williams, colored, aged sixty, will probably die as the result of a bullet through the body, fired by George Brown, colored, aged forty, who met him in the street and began shooting after a few words. Bad blood had existed between the men for some time. Brown escaped.

PAYS HIS REGARDS TO BROTHER'S WIFE

John A. Chaloner's Opinion of Cavalieri.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 14.—"I am sorry for him; but it is my turn to laugh," declared John A. Chaloner, the brother of "Sheriff Bob" Chaloner of New York, mirthfully, speaking in regard to the recent reported estrangement between his brother and the prima donna, Lina Cavalieri. Chaloner, who is ill, received a reporter in his bedroom. On the bed lay marked copies of New York and other papers. He styles his relatives his "ex family."

Chaloner continued: "I came to the conclusion when I studied Cavalieri that she was a siren, and could not help recalling Kipling's verses—'Even as you and I, but, mind you, I do not call my ex-brother a fool. The Bible forbids. I would say rather that Bob is a jackass."

"I cannot say I know Cavalieri, but I have studied her face carefully—her chiselled features, her languid, calculating eye and voluptuous body. Cavalieri is fit to be ranked with the cruel—the cruelly great and greatly cruel women of history."

Says There is No Trouble.

New York, Sept. 14.—Robert W. Chanler has denied again that there has been any trouble between himself and his wife, who was formerly Lina Cavalieri, the opera singer. Mr. Chanler added that he was quite put out over the publicity recently accorded his private affairs.

NEWSPAPER UPHELD

Not Against Law to Print Advertisements Offering Prizes.

New York, Sept. 14.—A newspaper advertisement in which prizes are offered is not a lottery, according to Judge Chatfield of the United States district court in Brooklyn, who has sustained the contention of the Brooklyn Eagle, in action brought by that paper to compel Postmaster Voorhees to admit papers containing such advertisements to the regular mails. In the advertisements complained of a firm of wholesale grocers offered prizes for the best poem describing a certain food.

SOCIETY NEWS

One of the most charming weddings of the month took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Lee in West First street this afternoon, when their daughter, Miss Bessie Ann, was married to Dr. Harry Allen VanOsdol of Indianapolis. The Episcopal ring ceremony was used, the token being carried by a little ring bearer. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. W. Abberley, pastor of the Main Street Christian church.

Promptly at three-thirty o'clock, the bridal party, the minister first, followed by the bridegroom, then little Miss Charlotte Davis, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Davis, carrying the ring in a French basket of flowers and the bride alone, went into the ceremony room, the parlor. The attendants, the Misses Estelle Jones and Luna Lee of this city, Miss Laura Murphy of Cincinnati, and Mrs. Ernest Cofield of Indianapolis, carried white ribbons, forming an aisle for the party. All during the ceremony and preceding it, Miss Olive Buell played a program of wedding music. Dr. John M. Lee of Denver,

Colo., brother of the bride, sang "O Promise Me."

Following the ceremony, the guests went to the dining room, where a several course luncheon was served. Small heart shaped favors were given to the wedding guests. Mrs. Lee Thomas sat at the coffee urn and the Misses Nelle and Cora Winship, Bertha Helm, Daisy Beale, Ruth Davis and Louise Craig assisted in the dining room.

The bride, Mrs. VanOsdol, wore a beautiful gown of silk crepe with trimmings of lovely imported lace and exquisite hand-made lace. The embroidery was all the work of Mrs. VanOsdol. She wore a bridal veil of tulle, held with lilies of the valley, and carried a bouquet of bride's roses.

The ceremony was performed in the small offset in the parlor, where the bay window is located, in front of an immense bank of flowers. The room was beautiful in white and green, those colors being used in the general scheme. The arch was made up of ferns and palms, intermingled with smilax. Smilax was draped from the chandeliers in the center of the room and was used tastefully in other places. Candles in silver candlesticks were placed around over the arch. White asters were used in decorating the side walls.

Pink and white were used promiscuously in the dining room and were the predominating colors. French baskets, filled with pink and white flowers, were on the table while white asters were used artistically, being placed in wall pockets all over the room.

Immediately after the wedding Dr. and Mrs. VanOsdol left for Indianapolis, where they will reside. The bridegroom is a practicing physician there. Their home is already furnished, ready for them to enter and they will be at home at once at 510 East Thirty-First street.

Among the visiting guests were Miss Laura Murphy of Cincinnati, Ohio; Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Cofield, Dr. H. H. Cofield, Claude Cain, Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Boyd, and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Coats of Indianapolis; Mrs. Sophia VanOsdol of New Castle; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lee of Arlington; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. VanOsdol of Rising Sun, parents of the bridegroom; and Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Robertson of Westport.

LOCAL VETERANS ATTEND REUNION

Several Survivors of the Civil War go to Indianapolis For the Annual Event.

ANDERSONVILLE MAN ELECTED

General Hackleman's Old Infantry Enjoys Reminiscent Day and Mourns Leader's Death.

About one hundred men from each attended the reunions of the Sixteenth Indiana Infantry and the One Hundred and Twenty-Fourth Infantry, which were held in the Superior Court, Rooms 1 and 2, yesterday morning, says the Indianapolis Star. The rooms were decorated in American flags and, in the reunion of the One Hundred and Twenty-Fourth Infantry, a banner presented to the regiment more than twenty years ago was a prominent feature. This regiment was recruited in central and eastern Indiana, two companies being from Indianapolis. Capt. D. D. Negley of Indianapolis is president of the regimental association.

The Sixteenth Infantry was recruited in various parts of the State and its first colonel, P. A. Hackleman of Rushville, became a brigadier general before his death at the battle of Corinth. He was the only Indiana general to lose his life in battle. Judge Stubbs of the Juvenile court was a member of this regiment and says its records show it to have been fifth in the list of regiments for loss of life in one battle. Capt. Timothy Doherty of St. Paul, Ind., presided at the reunion.

The survivors of the One Hundred and Twenty-third Indiana Regiment closed their annual reunion yesterday by electing new officers as follows: W. M. Bruner, Greensburg, president; Capt. Hugh Weston, Fairmount, vice president; B. B. Jearl, Indianapolis, vice president; Moses A. Ciseo, Indianapolis, vice president; W. S. Kaler, Andersonville, secretary-treasurer; and Lieut. Jesse Miller, Rising Sun, chaplain.

TO SEE PACERS IN GREAT MATCH RACE

Local Fast Horse Admirers Expected to Witness Duplication of Monday's Event at State Fair.

PROGRAM SLIGHTLY CHANGED

A number of local horse admirers went to Indianapolis today to see the team race between the four great pacers at the State fair. But they will see even a better contest as one important change has been made in the race card, and that is that the team race between Hedgewood Boy and Lady Maud C and Minor Heir and George Gano has been declared off and a race between the four to sulky has been substituted. This was due to the fact that the race between the four on Monday made such a hit with the public that there was a general demand for a repetition. Then, again, all four pacers showed so much more speed than was expected that Harry Hersey believes there is an excellent chance for another record to be made. All of them showed ability to pace in two minutes, in fact Lady Maud C was officially timed at two minutes, while George Gano must have gone as good as two minutes from where he got. Hedgewood Boy was last, but he was lapped on the others, and was handicapped with a flat tire.

The mile on Monday should serve as an excellent preparation for another great race today, and it's an interesting question if that race has not benefited the trio more than it has Minor Heir. If Minor Heir should not win, another two-minute pacer will be added to the very small but select list, for the Indianapolis track is now conceded to be as fast as any track in the country.

Matters not what one may say CLARK'S PURITY FLOUR tells.
